Bryan Trottier: the racist, misogynist leader of the English-Canada branch of La Meute

From Montréal-Antifasciste

In a desperate attempt to influence the recent Quebec elections, La Meute has been popping up in the last few weeks with small, decentralized actions. Though the mainstream media has been giving them far too much attention for their size, the extreme-right group's actions haven't gained much popular support, in stark contradiction to their leader Sylvain "Maikan" Brouillette's slogan: "40,000 members, 40,000 votes".

It's within this context that, on the 15th of September, Steeve "L'artiss" Charland (Maikan's potential rival) led a "mobile protest" which was, in reality, simply a bunch of cars driving around with La Meute flags or stickers. The meet-up for the dozen or so La Meute members was Oka, right next to the Mohawk community of Kanesatake. Upon their arrival, members of the Kanesatake community mobilized to kick them out, subjecting them to boos and insults as they left, and in so doing, refusing to allow their community to be used in the way the extreme-right group have been attempting to use them during the past few months.

«Hey! Get out! Hey, you're not passing by the reserve either. Get the fuck out of here! Get the fuck out. And they're not going up this way.»

– A Kanesatake resident speaking to La Meute on September 15, 2018

A video of these events has already been viewed over 50,000 times and shared hundreds of times on Facebook. Some La Meute members used the comments section of the video to spew their racist, colonial hate. A user named “Barb N Bryan Wolfe” took the prize for disgusting comments against indigenous people (image 1). These comments included: “Kanesatake needs to be quarantined,” “This is why we had to fuck you idiots up in ’90,” (referring to the Oka standoff), and calling the Mohawk community “racist Peieces (sic) of shit.”

Who exactly is “Barb N Bryan Wolfe”?

It turns out that this Facebook account is owned by Barbara Edwards (also known as Barbara Wolfe) (image 2), known for organizing an islamophobic protest in Toronto in March 2017. Bryan Trottier is, in fact, her boyfriend. He has been using the Barb N Bryan Wolfe account to regurgitate his islamophobic hatred and to organize racist events in Ontario. Bryan Trottier is the “Commandant” of the CDN Wolfpack (image 3), the English-Canada branch of La Meute in Ontario, which currently operates independently from La Meute in Quebec. It also turns out that Bryan not only uses his girlfriend’s account but also fake accounts under the names of Joshephine Murphy and Zora Xeno.

Dear Wolves. There is what is shaping up to be a very large protest against the Trudeau Liberals happening on Parliament Hill, Feb 18th, organised by the Asian-Canadian community. Busses are being laid on for a pay-what you-can fee by the organisers, leaving from Toronto and Montreal early on that day. This is not a CDN Wolfpack sponsored event, but members are free to go and speak their mind to the corruption who presently occupies the hallowed halls of Parliament. Same etiquette as usual applies to Wolves attending: no verbal or graphic representations of CDN /La Meute to be displayed. Those of us who go, will be going as Citizens of Canada. This is a great opportunity to not only show that Canadians of every stripe are opposed to the arrogance, irresponsibility, and treason of the Trudeau Liberals, but also to foster and nurture a quickly-growing movement among a group of Canadians who until now, have silently suffered the insults and greed of a Government who doesn't represent them. This is an opportunity to show that Unity Is Our Strength.

TO those wishing to attend, as always, act in a manner befitting and reflective of the values of the CDN Wolfpack/La Meute. Show them that we are unafraid. That we are inclusive. That we are proud, and disciplined. Anyone wishing to enquire about transportation, please feel free to contact myself, or Barbara Wolfe.

This is far from the first example of Bryan Trottier's disgraceful behaviour.

False accusations used to spread antifeminism and misogyny

Last June, we published an article on the false accusation of sexual assault orchestrated by a right-wing troll who was using the name “ZoraXeno”. This false accusation, shared by alt-right videoblogger DMS amongst others, was rapidly debunked and denounced. Like we said then, despicable attempts to employ anonymous accusations of sexual violence won’t keep us from believing victims and survivors in general.

In July, another fake account named “Joshephine Murphy” came out with another false accusation against a member of the pro-union and anti-fascist music group Union Thugs.

Once again, it was denounced as a completely fabricated story, while reiterating support for survivors and feminist struggles against sexual violence and sexism. (image 4-5-6)

Considering the recent event, although we're happy to see that everything is back in order, we felt it was our responsibility to say a few words.

July 9, 2018

On the evening of July 8, 2018 the organizer of a show we are playing told us that we were removed from the event following allegations of sexual assault against a Union Thugs member. We learned later that these accusations had been made by a facebook profile named Josephine Murphy, a notorious fascist's fake account, who had already published a false story of aggression on the facebook page of Collectif Les Gamines during the G7 summit.

We are quite open to feminist criticism of the behavior of our members. However, we strongly denounce the instrumentalization of feminist struggles for the creation of false stories aimed at discrediting the labour movement and anti-fascist struggles. In light of this event, it seems important to reaffirm our feminist and anti-fascist positions against all forms of oppression. We will always support those who decide to end the culture of silence. Finally, we invite all those who wish to share any criticism to contact us.

Solidarity forever,

Union Thugs

Yesterday evening, we received troubling news about one of the bands on this show. After more consideration and lot's of investigation, we have discovered the person making these accusations is a known member of an alt right group known as La Meute in Montreal. This person / group has been spreading misinformation and lies about members of the punk community and other left wing, feminist, and antifacist organizations to keep them from speaking, and to dismantle the left wing in Montreal since the G7. We want to say that in no way can we allow false accusations to devalue the cries of actual victims. This type of slander and misrepresentation not only effects the accused but also the real victims of abuse. After careful consideration and investigation, the show will continue. We will not allow fascist/nationalist organizations bully our community into submission. Please feel free to contact us with any questions and concerns and we will be happy to address them. We would also like to take this time to apologize to the band Union Thugs and its members, specifically to the Bass player Matthieu. Thank you to everyone who reached out to us to bring this information to light and provide us with proof of these false accusations. Thank you to the Union Thugs for understanding this situation and the severity of the accusations, thank you to the Montreal IWW, Montreal Antifascists, and Collectif Les Gamines for your support and unity in this matter.

Encore une fois, des membres de groupes fascistes ont tenté de diviser le mouvement antifasciste en instrumentalisant nos luttes.

Heureusement, grâce aux efforts de nombreuses personnes, nous avons été en mesure de rétablir la vérité.

Faire de fausses dénonciations est anti-féministe, mine la crédibilité des survivantes et restera toujours inacceptable.

Montreal feminist collective Les Gamines, known to have published numerous anonymous accounts of sexual abuse which identified the abusers, denounces the false accusations brought by Joshephine Murphy (the fake Bryan Trottier account).

Bryan, Joshephine, Zora... même combat

In the most recent false accusation against Union Thugs, the Joshephine Murphy account didn't even bother to pretend to be a left-wing organizer anymore, as we can see in image 7 with the "anti-communist" logo which refers to the Pinochet-era assassinations. In any case, after the harassment of multiple left-wing Facebook pages, the Joshephine account has finally owned up to being "Bryan." (Image 8)

Note that Bryan Trottier used both accounts simultaneously to intimidate a radical group from Ontario in the summer of 2018:

Unmasked!

Long story short, Bryan Trottier, aka Joshephine Murphy, aka ZoraXeno, aka Barb N Bryan Wolfe, isn't some random individual (or group of individuals) but is actually the head of the extreme-right CDN Wolfpack group. Up until this past September 15th, theWolfpack was Quebec group La Meute's sister organization, organizing islamophobic protests together. Despite their recent split, the head of Quebec's La Meute group (Sylvain "Maikan" Brouillette) reminded everyone on the La Meute public Facebook group that "La Meute and CDN Wolfpack will continue to work together closely." (September 15, 2018). At the time this article is being written, the CDN Wolfpack sign-up page was still hosted on Quebec's La Meute website (image 13).

Both deeply islamophobic and racist groups say they want to protect "western values" (and white western women) against Islam. They frequently employ the concepts of equality between women and men to sanitize their hateful anti-Muslim ideology.

The multiple denunciations of sexual assault within the leadership of La Meute, their hatred of the headscarf (and consequently Muslim women), and their numerous attempts to put forward false accusations of sexual assault in an attempt to discredit feminist struggles against rape culture prove over and over their misogyny and antifeminism.

In conclusion, we reaffirm that the biggest danger to our values – feminist, antiracist, antifascist, and in staunch opposition to colonialism – are the Bryan Trottiers of the world, and racist organizations like La Meute, rather than new immigrants with their languages, cultures and religions.
